

THE CLARKE COURIER
ESTABLISHED 1899.
CHARLES R. HUGHES,
Editor and Proprietor.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Per Annum, $1.50
If paid in advance, $1.00

IMPORTANT TO SUBSCRIBERS
The Postoffice Department (under regulations effective January 1, 1900) rules that publishers of WEEKLY newspapers cannot carry subscribers in arrears more than one year; semi-weeklies, not more than nine months; tri-weeklies, not more than three months; and dailies, not more than three months.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 7, 1910.

All advertisements (excepting legal advertisements and professional cards) inserted for less than three months are considered transient, and will be charged for at the rate of five cents per line for the first insertion, and three cents per line for each succeeding insertion.

Obituary notices, resolutions of respect, and social organizations, other than those which the editor himself shall give as a matter of news, will be charged for, at the above rates.

Our advertising rates are uniform, and a liberal reduction is made on all standing advertisements, and rates will be made known on application. Changes of advertisements must be handed in not later than Saturday morning of each week.

Entered at the Postoffice at Berryville, Va., as second-class mail matter.

A WITTY PASHA.
He told the Missionary a story to fit the occasion.

Official bribery is common in the east, and it is a tender subject there, as a humorous story told by the late Rev. H. H. Jones, D. D., in his book, "Fifty-Three Years in Syria," bears witness.

One day in 1873 Dr. Van Dyck, manager of the press in connection with the work of propaganda of the Syrian Protestant college at Beirut, was sent for by Kamil Pasha, the governor, to come to the serai, as he was about to shut up the press for a violation of the press laws. Dr. Van Dyck proceeded to the serai and asked the pasha what he meant.

The pasha, holding up a little tract, said, "Was this printed at your press?"

"Yes."

"Then it must be confiscated, as it contains an attack on the Turkish government."

"Wherein?" asked Dr. Van Dyck, "does it attack the government?"

The pasha pointed out several passages which criticized the bribery and corruption everywhere prevalent, perjury and lying among witnesses and public officials and the fact that "truth had fallen in the streets and equity could not enter."

"Are not these statements true?" said Dr. Van Dyck. "Your excellency ought to put a copy into the hands of every government official in your pashalik. Is it not so?"

"Have you never heard the story of the Cad of Ah War?" asked the pasha.

"And what is that?" queried the doctor.

"Well," began the pasha, "once there was a famous one-eyed cad (judge). One day a man came to court and addressed him as follows:

"Good morning, O one-eyed cad! May your day be blessed, O one-eyed cad! I have heard of the noble character and justice of the one-eyed cad, and I would ask the distinguished and revered one-eyed cad to do me justice, and—"

"Stop!" interrupted the cad. "Supposing I am one-eyed, do I want to be everlastingly reminded of it? Get out of my sight!"

"And so," concluded the pasha, "we know that these reflections on our country and our courts are true, but we don't want to be publicly reminded of it!"

ANCESTRY.
Some Famous Personages to Whom It Meant Nothing.

The making famous of the expression "I am my own ancestor" is usually credited to Andoche Junot, for a time a marshal of France. Junot had risen from the ranks and became the Duke of Abrantes and an important figure at Napoleon's newly formed court. One day a nobleman of the old regime asked him what was his ancestry.

"Ah, sir," replied the spirited soldier, "I know nothing about it. I am my own ancestor." Probably he had never heard of the similar remark made by Tituba about Curious Rufus. "He seems to me to be descended from himself."

Napoleon's reply to the emperor of Austria was in a kindred vein. The Austrian when Napoleon became his prospective son-in-law would fain have traced the Bonaparte lineage to some petty prince of the Alps. "I am my own ancestor," said Napoleon, "and my own Rudolph of Hapsburg," said Napoleon. Under similar circumstances Napoleon silenced a genealogist, "Friend, my patent of nobility dates from Montemotte," his first great victory.

When Iphigeneia, the Athenian general, had it cast up in his face by a descendant of Harmodius that he was a shoemaker's son he calmly replied, "The nobility of my family begins with me; yours ends with you."

Almost the same words were used by Alexander Dumas when asked if he were not descended from an ape (covert sneer at his negro grandmother). "Very likely my ancestry begins where yours ends."

Voltaire in his "Merope" says: "The first to become king was a successful soldier. He who serves well his country has no need of ancestry."

CONQUERED THE ORCHESTRA.
In his early days Herr Arthur Nikisch, the famous conductor, was appointed to conduct a performance of "Tannhauser" at the Leipzig opera. He was but a young chorus master at the time, and the orchestra absolutely refused to play under so youthful a conductor. They were only induced to do so when a director said that if they were of the same mind after the overture had been played they could then and there and in their resignations. The overture was a veritable triumph for Nikisch, and with profuse apologies the orchestra offered him their congratulations—London Tit-Bits.

DODGING THE BORE.
The tardy chairman passed at the door of the smoking room.

"Bingley," he asked, in a whisper, "has Slogger given out the daily statement of his health and told all about his symptoms yet?"

"Yes," said the man inside the door, "he's just finished."

"All right, I'll come in," Chicago Tribune.

A QUEER UNIVERSITY.
Cairo Has the World's Oldest Educational Institution.

"When we think of Harvard or Yale, the former dating from 1636 and the latter from 1701, we think of them as old universities," says a writer in the American Educational Review, "but when we pass to the other side of the world we discover that even the oldest American universities are in reality very young institutions."

"The oldest educational institution in the world is the University of El Ashar, Cairo, founded in the year 28 by the great Saladin. It is the central seat of learning for the whole Mohammedan world, as well as a fountain of spiritual life. It occupies an ancient mosque in the Arab quarter of Cairo, surrounded by a confusing maze of narrow streets where the population is made up of representatives of every race that follows the prophet."

"The old mosque covers several acres and consists of a series of courts surrounded by long cloisters with low roofs supported by forests of columns. The floors of red tiles are covered daily by a multitude of men and boys, squatting in semicircles around their teachers, who sit with their backs to the columns lecturing in monotonous tones."

"The chancellor of the university is always a descendant of the prophet and is usually a man of ability and learning. He occupies apartments in El Ashar and is not only the supreme educational but the ecclesiastical head of the church of Egypt."

"There is no organization similar to that in modern universities. Any reputable man who desires to teach can obtain the privilege by application and is assigned a column where he may sit and impart the truth as he thinks proper. His fame or ability will attract more or less students and disciples, who pay him fees according to their means."

THE SCOLD'S BRIDLE.
Brutal Punishment to Which Women Were Once Subjected.

The brank, or scold's bridle, or go-slip's bridle, was neither more nor less than a muzzle. It was in general use in Great Britain from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century, and in Scotland as well as women were muzzled for certain offenses, some at least of them more imaginary than real. The instrument of torture, even a dog's leather muzzle, is uncomfortable. How much more the scold's muzzle! It consisted, according to a high authority, Mr. W. Jewitt, of a kind of crown or frame-work of iron, and it was armed in front with a gag, a plate or sharp cutting knife or point, which was placed in the poor woman's mouth so as to prevent her moving her tongue, or it was so placed that if she did move it or attempt to speak it was cut in a most frightful manner. With this cage upon her head and with the gag firmly pressed down and locked against her tongue the miserable creature, whose sole offense perhaps was that she raised her voice in defense of her social rights against a brutal and besotted husband or had spoken honest truth of some one high in office in her town, was paraded through the streets, led by a chain by the hand of a bellman, the bundle or the constable or chained to the pillory, the whipping post or market cross, to be subjected to every conceivable insult and degradation, without even the power left her of asking for mercy or of promising amendment for the future, and when the punishment was over she was turned out from the town hall or the place where the brutal punishment had been inflicted, maimed, disgraced, bleeding, faint and degraded, to be the subject of comment and jeering among her neighbors—London Family Herald.

Colors of the Stars.
Although there is no relation apparent between the two phenomena, yet it is interesting to recall the fact that among the stars certain colors appear to characterize different stages of change, or evolution. Red stars, according to the testimony of the spectroscopic, differ widely in their constitution from white or yellow ones, and it has been thought that varying colors may give a clue to progressive changes in the heavenly bodies. Sirius, for instance, is said to have changed from red to white, and some have suspected that Arcturus is fading from red toward yellow.

PUBLIC SALE
Intending to move away from the farm where he is now living, the undersigned will sell at public auction, on the highest bidder, at "Lakeview," near the turnpike running from Millwood to Berry's Ferry, Clarke county, Va., beginning promptly at 2:45 a. m., on

Friday, September 9, 1910
the following valuable personal property:
29 Head of Horses and Colts.
70 Head of Cattle.
75 Head of Sheep.
30 Head of Hogs and Pigs, including a fine young boar; and a lot of Farming implements, vehicles, harness and utensils.

Among the horses are valuable heavy draft brood mares, heavy draft colts, principally mares, a Percheron stallion, a pair of roadsters, a lovely little saddle mare, a 3 year old fat McGregor gelding, a splendid pure-bred Hackney horse and five sucking colts.

Among the cattle are a carload of large fat cattle (22 head), some nice fresh cows, fat young bulls, 2 year old heifers, a lot of thrifty young heifers, steers and calves.

It is useless to dwell in detail on the merit of this stock.

There will be bargains for everybody and you can get any kind of an animal you ask for, except an indifferent one.

The entire sale will be without reserve of any kind except in the case of a gray mare, "Mollie." This fine animal is disgraced by the loss of an eye and as a slight protection a bid of $500 is reserved on her.

Terms of Sale:

Phosphate

Prof. Alva Agee of the Pennsylvania Agricultural College says, "Careful experiment station tests show that a pound of plant food in Basic Slag is just as effective as a pound of so-called available Phosphoric Acid in Acid Phosphate."

The 18% or more of Phosphoric Acid in Basic Slag is worth $18 or more per ton. The line is worth several dollars additional. Moreover, Basic Slag, like animal bone, contains no harmful material and hence is worth several dollars more per ton on that account.
